Here it is. The Carmel Youth Center which will belong to Carmel's kids. Not just another building. A graceful, functional, edifice with lines clean and modern as the teen generation for whom it will be built.

Mayor Fred Godwin appears before the Crosby fund committee tomorrow to petition a total $8,000 toward the $15,000 cost. This will come out of the proceeds of the last Crosby golf tournament. $2,000 of this has already been earmarked in the Crosby fund resources from last year. With $2,000 raised by the Boys' Club plus $2,500 anticipated proceeds from the Youth Center Building Benefit fund at the La Playa Ranch, Sunday, September 18, building is assured.

Construction will begin on city deeded lots at Torres and 4th as soon as the financial picture gets its finishing touches.

Builders and contractors are donating professional advice and providing construction material for the center at cost or below. Much of the labor will be donated including use of city equipment when possible. J. O. Handley, Carmel building contractor, has been named head of the building committee.

The above sketches were done by John Grace of Robert R. Jones, A. I. A. Architect. Photos for the sketch plates were made by Murl Ogden.

Hallie's Letter . . .

Some months ago the residents of Carmel were informed that we were to have "clean up week" and if we would place brush, rubbish, etc. in front of our property on the street it would be picked up by the City. In fact we were urged to do this in order to have our village neat and tidy. A certain day was set and that day I went down to one of our properties situated on 8th Avenue from Carmelo to San Antonio and proceeded to have the place cleaned up and trimmed. When the work was under way I left for a while and upon returning was informed that the police had been by twice saying it was against the law to put brush on the sidewalk and if we did not have it hauled at once we would be arrested. I wondered what the mistake could be as we had phoned the fire department before we started, to ascertain if it was really all right, and were told "Yes, and you can put out anything but garbage." So we phoned the Chief of Police who told us there had been a mistake somewhere and that there was to be no city pick up of trash. I told him this was work I had not intended doing and we had been greatly inconvenienced and he said the police were helpless to do anything about it other than give us a day or so to have the brush cleared. We made a special effort and had it hauled that very day. Then that afternoon we heard that the City had decided to pick up trash after all so I again went down to finish the work but wishing to have no more misunderstandings, Mr. Lafrenz and I phoned the fire department again. They said it was all right to go ahead. And in addition, this time to make doubly sure, we also phoned the Chief of Police, Mr. Fraties, who told us there had been a change and the City would pick up trash put out in front. I told him I was sorry I had been so diligent in having ours taken away the day before instead of waiting a day and suggested jokingly, that the city should pay the bill. I told him I wanted to be very certain it would be all right to go ahead as we didn't want the same thing to happen all over again. He assured us it was O. K. Afterwards we assumed it was all right as for weeks there were no complaints from the police.

In the meantime various reports were abroad as to whether the City had changed its mind again. But at no time did the City Council issue a statement to the residents informing them, although they knew people were continuing to "clean up" all in good faith. Other than gossip we had no reason to think there would be any trouble as I kept phoning Mrs. Cook of The Pine Cone and each time she assured me that she had the word of the mayor, to the effect that the City would pick up the brush.

Then one day recently to my utter amazement a police officer came in our shop and said we were to be given a citation if we did not remove the brush at once. It was the first we had heard officially of such a thing and thinking it was another mistake I asked him who gave him his orders. He said "Mr. Knight." I was surprised and phoned him at once asking him if he had ordered us arrested. He said he didn't know that was our property down on Carmelo. I explained the circumstances to him and how Mr. Fraties had very definitely assured us it was O. K. and that I had a witness to that effect as Mr. Lafrenz was with me at the phone. He said he believed me. He has known us many years and I cannot believe he feels I would misrepresent a thing of this sort. I told him it seemed a pity that the Council did not notify the public through the press if they did not intend to do what the residents understood would be done, having been told so by the Fire Department, the Police Department and the newspapers. It would have been simple. He replied that Mrs. Cook had been advised of the fact at public meeting. This of course, is not true as I checked with her right away. In any case she has never been given an official statement by the council to print in her paper to properly inform the residents—nor was any other newspaper given one. (Ed. Note: Mr. Knight probably refers to Councilman Gene Ricketts' answer to the students at their mock meeting when they asked him when the brush would be picked up and he said it wasn't going to be picked up. We hesitated to regard this as an official expression of the intentions of the city council since when we asked for an explanation from the mayor he said the trash was going to be picked up and he was getting together with the council that afternoon informally to discuss ways and means, and he authorized us to state in The Pine Cone that such was the case.)

The Herald, over the hill, which after all is not a Carmel paper, printed several references to the situation but nothing official. At one time the Herald stated the brush in Carmel would be picked up soon as the City trucks had time.

In the end Mr. Knight said he would get in touch with Mr. Fraties and suggested I do the same. I did so at once. It developed that Mr. Fraties during the long interim had quite forgotten he had told us to go ahead with the brush deal and flatly denied it. He asked me why would he have told us it was all right when he knew it was not and had told countless other people it was not all right. But in the next breath he said he was in the same boat with us because he had put his own brush in front of his property. It makes one wonder why he would do that knowing as he said he did, that it was not all right.

As time passed and Mr. Knight did not call back I finally phoned him again being eager to clear the matter up. We had a long conversation which ended with his suggestion that we all meet at the property inasmuch as Mr. Fraties now denies what he told us. I said we would be delighted to have the meeting and proceeded to wait by the phone for his call though I had many other things to do. When he finally called he said Mr. Fraties was not at the station and that he himself was too busy to go. We were busy, too, but thought it was important. The thing was his idea so I suggested we make a definite appointment for any time he might say and we would be there. This he would not do. When I asked him where Mr. Fraties got his instructions to issue such warrants he said "from the council." (Ed. Note: A check of the minutes reveals that at no time was any official action taken by the council instructing Mr. Fraties to serve warrants for the arrest of people leaving brush on the streets. Any such instructions must have been delivered privately since the matter has never been even discussed in open council meeting. However, the chief of police does not need authorization to enforce an ordinance. He may do so on his own authority.) Mr. Knight added that he had no authority to do so or even to tell Mr. Fraties not to serve the warrant pending our "get together" that he wanted. If then it was entirely up to the council, it seemed fitting to me inasmuch as Mr. Knight knew the facts of which the other council members were not cognizant, that he should inform them rather than sit back and sanction the unwarranted arrest of good citizens and tax payers. He repeated he had no authority to do anything about it.

Monday, September 12: "With joy and anticipation, the children of Carmel eagerly return to their studies, and . . ." —LINOLEUM CUT BY DAWN OVERHULSE.

Frenchy Was A Holdout . .

It's simple for an editor to sit down at his typewriter and say the city council has behaved in an asinine and not too forthright manner in dealing with the citizens, if he doesn't happen to be a small town editor, know the councilmen by their first names and like them.

Gene Ricketts, Donald Craig, Allen Knight, Andy Martin and Fred Godwin are as honest and sincere a quintet as you could find anywhere to govern a town. Still, in the matter of the Big Carmel Clean Up Campaign, they not only muddled themselves into an equivi- [illegible] but with a pig-[illegible] edness wonderful to behold, continued to make their position more unjustifiable from day to day until, if the whole community isn't sore at them by now, it is because Carmelites, from long experience, have learned never to be surprised at anything, be it ever so erratic, its city councilmen may do.

True, it wasn't the councilmen's idea in the first place to invite the citizens to clean up their yards and dump the trash on the city streets for the city trucks to pick up. It was Fire Marshal Fred Leidig's. But when they were asked for a statement on it, they said, and with permission to quote—all but Andy Martin, who was unavailable, and the mayor, who was away—that they thought it was a fine idea and would see to it that the city trucks picked up the trash.

You read about it in The Pine Cone. Ten to one you went right out, cleaned up your yard and piled trash on the edge of the street. A month or two later, when the city trucks hadn't called for the trash, ten to one you got sick of seeing the stuff in the street and called up a private concern to have it hauled away at your own expense.

If you didn't, a month or so still later you were visited by one of the Carmel Police Department stalwarts who told you that it was a violation of the city ordinance to put trash in the streets and if you didn't have it hauled away at your own expense, you would be arrested.

Ten to one you had it hauled away, muttering about either (1) half-baked city councilmen who don't know what they are talking about or (2) these darn newspapers never seem to get anything straight, and that includes The Pine Cone.

You were wrong on the last count. We will enlarge on the first.

The city councilmen probably were sincere in thinking it was a splendid idea for the city trucks to haul away the trash until they were faced with a blue blaze of indignation from the forget-me-not eyes of Street Superintendent William Askew. Bill said he was too busy to haul away trash. There were few people in this town who couldn't afford to pay to have their trash hauled away. He'd be all summer getting it off the streets, and meanwhile, what would happen to the regular street work? Besides, if all the trash were hauled away by the city it would have to be dumped in the city's dump, and the city would not have a dump any more, because with all that trash it would be filled up.

Apparently it was at this point that it occurred to the city council that they hadn't taken any OFFICIAL steps. They hadn't voted on anything in council meeting. Maybe they'd better go a little slow on this. Fred would be back pretty soon. Wait and see what Fred thought.

Mayor Fred Godwin, returning from a convention, looked over the trash situation, thought it was too bad the boys had gotten themselves into such a position but now that they had, it was up to them to make good on their promise. The people had the stuff out in the street on the assurance of the councilmen that it would be hauled away free. So be it, it would be hauled away free, and The Pine Cone could quote him on that latter statement.

From here on confusion domi-

Lafrenz Fined $10 For Piling Trash On Carmel Street

Adon Lafrenz plead guilty in Judge George P. Ross' city court Wednesday to the charge of piling brush on the sidewalk, a misdemeanor.

He was fined $10, Judge Ross saying that the fine was light because of the extenuating circumstances. The editorial at the top of this page and a letter written by Hallie Samson on page two of this issue deal with the extenuating circumstances.

Warshawsky On Jury For Western Artists Show At de Young

The tenth annual exhibition of art—oil, water colors and sculpture—by the Society of Western Artists, will be held in the De Young Museum, Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, October 26 to November 26.

Abel Warshawsky, Carmel Art Association member, who has been asked to act on the jury, urged local artists to get their work in to the museum as soon as possible.

Entries are restricted to recent work not previously shown at any major exhibit. Two works of art may be submitted by any artist. The media: oil paintings, framed not larger than 72 inches; water colors, matted only, not framed in glass. Sculpture should be not less than eight inches in height and not over 1,000 pounds in weight.

The jury is made up of a representative of the museum, an art critic from a San Francisco newspaper, two members of the Society of Western Artists, and one nationally known artist. Mr. Warshawsky falls in the latter classification.

All entries must reach the museum, charges prepaid, not later than Friday, September 30, 4:30 p. m. Those wishing to deliver their work may do so at the rear entrance opposite Tenth and Fulton. Hours are 10:30 to 4:30 p. m., Monday through Friday, September 19 to 23, and September 26 to 30.

Varied Selection Of Paintings In New Show Skillfully Expresses American Pictorial Feeling

BY HELEN PROSSER

It is just as impossible to predict local weather as it is to predict the varied exhibits of local art in the Carmel Art Gallery. This Gallery has the distinction of being one of the few associations in America where a painting of the old school might he hung directly beside an impressionistic and that directly opposite a futuristic, and even that surrounded by a cubist and a cartoonist's rendition!

Nearly all these techniques are evident in the new display of water color paintings in the Beardsley Room of the Carmel Art Association Gallery this month.

Outstanding in the exhibit is a portrait of a woman by John O'Shea. Simplicity is its keynote, with rich opaque hues almost opalesce in color range, emphasized by a dark shawl about her shoulders. Her hair is smoothed close to her head in a style befitting her bold strong features and serenity of expression. Mr. O'Shea has achieved a beautiful design in this study, which stands apart from all the others for its individual style.

As a painter see, so he paints and as he paints, so he sees. This statement is clearly defined by a group of four wharf scenes, each individually handled yet obviously of similar location and subject matter. In H. Williamson's Old Wharf there is bold style with beautiful sombre blue values that is almost tragic harmony in definite opposition to James Vance's Wharf with its warm pastel colors and sunlight abounding the paper, typifying the gay vividness of wharf life. Harold Helvenston's Monterey Harbor has dark light pattern. Clear transparent color lends a bright fresh feeling to the subject. Royden Martin's Monterey Boats has a fine translucency of water, luminosity of shadows magnified by his careful drawing.

Hoyland Bettinger's Oaks shows a warm green landscape with thin trees rising gracefully profiled against the rich sky which bathes the scene in twilight and casts pale shadows in the foreground. Mr. Bettinger has achieved remarkable tranquillity in this water color, a quality found in few of the paintings in this hanging.

Armin Hansen has two bold water colors in this group entitled Standby and Stranded. The latter is a wild, glorious seascape, alive with moving clouds, rich churning sea, and an airy golden light diffusing everywhere. Such harmony and spontaneous equilibrium are found only in a true master's work. Stand By is equally powerful with dark masses of sombre fishermen in the foreground as painted from the interior of a fishing boat with the wild storm-tossed sea almost thundering out of the painting.

W. C. Watt's Colossi of Memnon typifies something of the literature in art. There is mysticism, sentiment, and poetry in this strangely moonlit subject of the two great singing gods of Memnon. It were as though the whole painting were viewed through a transparent veil of water which lends enchantment to the mystic, romantic subject. It was of these gods that Shakespeare wrote

He heard great Memnon's Morning song when Marble lips were Smitten by the sun."

Credit in this fine water color show must also go to Rollin Pickford for Houses, in which he has captured with simplicity and excellent composition the charm and color of a street scene. There is real wind in the clouded sky and fine delicate reflections in the wet street in the foreground. There is also fine draughtsmanship in Paul Whitman's Cypress with the beautifully weathered cypress trees and transparency of sky and sea.

Phil Nesbitt's cartoon quality in his Mexican Market has individual humor and style. It is a sketch

BAY LEAGUE SOFTBALL BANQUET SCHEDULED FOR NEXT MONDAY NIGHT

Extra base-hits and fielding gems galore will be bandied around at Franco's Cafe in Castroville next Monday night when players, managers, rooters, and their guests gather to celebrate the completion of the Bay League's first year. Under the guidance of Stan Falk, 526 Club manager, a gala get-together has been planned for the eight teams which comprised the league. Diner-up will be called at 7 o'clock. Players, wives, and guests of the Pine Cone and Wilder & Jones teams of Carmel are encouraged to be on hand for the final affair of the season.

The champion Castroville Dons will be honored with trophies for the team and sponsor. A permanent trophy which must be won three times before a team may retain possession will be presented to Whitey Moore and his able cohorts, while a take-home trophy will go to Joe Gambetta, sponsor of the Castroville Dons.

COAST COUNTIES FOOTBALL TEAMS HARD AT WORK FOR SEASON OPENERS

With only two more weeks in which to pick up the necessary fundamentals and condition to answer the referee's whistle, all the grid teams in the Coast Counties have been buckling down to serious work during the past week. The Monterey High School Toreadores get the jump on the rest of the teams by engaging in their first tussle on September 17. The green-shirted lads aren't picking anything easy for their opener, tackling the always-rough Pittsburgh High. Monterey breezed through to win the A division CCAL last year and are picked as co-favorites with Watsonville to pick up the blue chips again this year. Although the Toreadores lost heavily by graduation, they have a strong rugged line ahead of some fleet and nimble backs.

Watsonville will field a thoroughly seasoned team which was mighty tough at the end of the 1948 season. With the cagy Emmett Geisert directing the Wildcats, they may get the job done this year. Salinas retains most of their third-place 1948 crew, and they have a shakeup in the coaching staff which may or may not improve their 1949 chances. With over 1,000 boys to choose from, anything could be expected from the Cowboys. Santa Cruz should have their best team in recent years. They have a host of veterans returning and will field the fastest backfield in the league. Given a needle-threading passer, look out for the Cardinals.

In the B division of the CCAL it appears to be a toss-up between the two large schools, Pacific Grove and Hollister. Both schools enjoy over a 300 attendance bulge on the small schools, Carmel, Gonzales, and King City. Hollister is new in the B division this year and will be anxious to make their debut a winning one. They have a beefy line and a backfield rated the fastest in either league. Pacific Grove, lifted to great heights by their new coach, "Choo-choo" Tstoutavous will offer a stern argument to any challengers in the league. The Breakers are well supplied with experienced material and have the tools to dominate the league.

The Gonzales Spartans will be building again this season, as they lost Yates and Company through graduation. The Spartans romped through the B league last year, employing nearly an all-senior team in their run for the flag. However, farm boys come pretty rugged down Gonzales way and the Black and Gold can't be counted out of the chase. King City took its share of rubbings last season, but Coach Jules Langlo was looking ahead to the 1949 season. Over 75 boys picked up football experience at King City high school last year and they will be heard from during the current season. The Mustangs play a rugged practice schedule before their league games start and they will be well shaken down before they start league play.

Carmel's "big red machine" of last season has shrunk to the "little red wagon" for the 1949 season. The Padres will be the smallest team in the league, but will send a fairly experienced eleven onto the field for their first league game. Drawing a bye for their first league date, the Red and Gray will be able to get another practice game under their belt before squaring off with King City on October 22. With over half of the boys in school participating in football, the Padres could come up with an outfit comparable with the 1947 championship aggregation. Carmel opens its season with a home game against Patterson on Saturday, September 24.

The Community Chest will shoot at a goal 20 per cent higher than last year when the drive opens October 3, A. G. Fry, president, announced this week.

The goal for 21 agencies is $72,000, since the Salvation Army has been added to the Community Chest family.

Chairmen for the Carmel districts are: Albert Lester, Carmel [illegible] ston, Carmel business; Mrs. C. Parker Holt, Pebble Beach; Kenneth Ray, Carmel Highlands; Mrs. Nelson Leoni, Carmel Valley. Colonel H. P. Kayser of Carmel Woods is the general coordinating chairman for the Monterey Peninsula.

Great Books Group To Meet On Mondays

The executive committee of the Carmel Great Books Foundation met Monday evening with Milton Mayer, coast representative of the organization, to set up a program for the year's group meetings.

This group, organized through the medium of libraries throughout the country, meets to discuss and evaluate with present day standards the validity of literary master works. Studies are based upon abridged editions of these works which have been prepared by the foundation. Meetings are conducted round table method with two experienced moderators to facilitate the discussion. Groups are held to about 30 members ideally.

Conducted generally only in larger cities, Carmel is the smallest in Mr. Mayer's experience to maintain such a group. The Carmel group was organized last year.

This year's schedule as decided in Monday's meeting is as follows:

Beginning, or first year group: every other Monday evening, starting Monday, September 23, Sunset School.

Second year group: every other Monday evening, starting Monday, September 26, Sunset School.

If the schedule as planned is not satisfactory, a rearrangement will be discussed at these first meetings.

Everyone is urged to attend one or the other of these meetings, whether previous member or stranger, says Miss Elizabeth Niles, Harrison Memorial Library librarian. Assigned reading may be purchased through the library. It is advisable to order immediately as two weeks will elapse between order and delivery.

Blanks for ordering may be obtained at the library as well as a preview of the books and any other information desired.

Do You Remember . . . ?

THE QUARTER, 1910

By A. G. Warshawsky

I posed Margaret seated at a table, one hand holding a liqueur glass and the other supporting her chin. Out of the shadow cast by her hat over her forehead her eyes, large and luminous, peered forth mysteriously, accentuating the pallor of her powdered face and the highly rouged mouth. The pose was one of expectancy, my idea—a very "literary" one—being to denote the femme fatale awaiting her prey.

In spite of the dramatic title and the "literary idea" behind it, thhe picture turned out rather amusing, both in color and as a composition. The difficulty I had to contend with, painting in this light, was to distinguish between the blues and greens. Even a strong yellow looked comparatively pale, and the violet tones which I mixed on my palate seemed to disappear, once laid upon the canvas.

The following morning I found my picture looking like a riot and I was obliged to tone down the yellows and key down the blues and violets that screeched out startingly in the light of day. In time and with experience I learned to modify and temper my mixtures, so that I painted as accurately as I would have in a normal light.

In the background of my picture a group of musicians, clad in red, was to be seen reflected in a mirror. The studies for these musicians were made at the Cafe d'Harcourt, on the Boulevard St. Michel, a favorite resort for students of the Latin Quarter, and were then supplemented in tone and color to harmonize with the main figure in the foreground.

During the dark winter afternoons I would frequent the sketching classes at either the Colarossi Academy or the Grande Chaumiere. A book of tickets, each one good for a three hours' seance in the sketch class could be had for a small sum. The poses were changed every half hour and were generally varied, the models themselves choosing the positions, standing, bending, reclining, or lying down at full length. It was fine practice, for the student was often forced to draw in the most difficult of perspectives.

To draw well, like most other human accomplishments, demands constant practice. Only in that way can one be familiarized with every gesture and movement, and the various proportions of the human figure. During these winter months I made many hundreds of drawings. To give variety to these croquis, I often employed red chalks or sanguine. But I would warn the beginner that the practice is a dangerous one, because through this medium even a very mediocre drawing acquires a charm which is apt to decieve as to its intrinsic merits. Dominique Ingres, one of the greatest draughtsmen of all time, preached, as a law for students, the use of the unsympathetic lead pencil, for it must indeed be a good drawing which looks well in that medium.

The practice of always carrying a sketch book is most valuable. On the streets, in cafes, or at home innumerable objects and studies are at the artist's command, an immediate inspiration for work, and a first-hand knowledge of form and movement. When searching for a subject, the artist often finds myriad suggestions by merely looking through his old sketch books. The eyes and fingers are trained to lightning quickness and to noting essentials with extreme accuracy. Many artists who make proficient drawings from models or fixed objects, find themselves at a loss when painting or drawing a subject in movement. This type of craftsman generally does stilted, lifeless, and unimaginative work.

January, 1910, found the Seine rapidly rising. Continuous winter rains were the cause of much havoc and destruction throughout the Seine Valley. The Marne, Oise, and other confluents helped to swell the floods to a dangerous height, unknown for many years. The Paris quays and adjoining streets were inundated, and in these quarters wheeled traffic had to be suspended. The flooded areas were most numerous on the left bank, and soon the entire river district between the Pont Neuf and the Pont Royal was a network of canals, with raised boardwalks and foot-bridges and old-fashioned water craft plying to and fro to convey passengers. As the streets in this quarter are among the oldest and most picturesque of Paris, the result, however uncomfortable for the residents, was highly picturesque for the artist, especially when a fall of snow added to the strange spectacle. In these temporary ca[illegible] buildings and objects were reflected as in another Venice, while on the Seine itself, the barges and flat boats with their masts, reached far over the street level. Soon the only bridge which remained open to traffic in the central part of Paris was the Pont Neuf, which, despite its name ,is the oldest bridge in Paris, dating from the time of Henri Quatre, whose statue stands there. To relieve the growing pressure of water between the embankments, there was even talk of blowing up some of the bridges in the narrower parts, which fortunately, was avoided, through the timely cessation of the floods.

This catastrophe, which brought misery, desolation, and great financial losses to a large portion of the population, was something of a windfall for the painting confraternity of Montmartre and Montparnasse. Painters and sketchers could be seen perched at the various vantage points in the inundated areas, at windows, on bridges, and in boats, busily sketching effects of swirling stream and current, submerged trees and houses, and the water traffic in the narrow old streets. As a result, the Spring Salon was deluged with flood pictures.

It was at this time that cinema-going became a habit in Paris, and naturally the younger generations were the first to take to it. Twice a week we attended "en masse" the cinemas in the Rue de la Gaite, the Cinema Pathe on Friday night, and the Mille Colonnes on Monday night, when there were changes of programme. To encourage the new fashion, the management provided special cards, called "cartes d'artistes," which entitled artists and students to good seats at very reduced prices. The theme of the films shown at that time were generally either sentimental French love romances or Wild West cowboy dramas. A favorite theme of the French films was that of parents or lovers losing their minds through loss of a loved one, and then recovering their faculties when the adored object unexpectedly returned.

The Mile Colonnes was frequented by the tougher elements. Fleas in abundance helped mitigate our pleasure, and during the intervals ushers would go about with large atomizers sprinkling the aisles and spectators indiscriminately. On leaving this resort, our crowd would hold together, as the young toughs and apaches, who would hang about after closing time, were a source of danger.

Another resort which was just coming into favor and was later to enjoy a certain notoriety, was the Cafe Rotonde, facing the Dome on the corner of the newly constructed Boulevard Raspail. At that time this now luxurious cafe was a small cafe-bar, with a tiny back room, hung with mirrors, where Russian and Polish residents of the Quarter would foregather. In the early years of the World War, Trotsky and many other future leaders of the Russian Revolution held council there and laid plans which were destined to shake the world.

No word had come from Casey since we had parted at Vernon in November, when one afternoon, towards the end of January, there was a knock at my door, and a Dome acquaintance, Fred McKean, came in, announcing that Casey and Berthe were at the Rotonde and anxious to see me. McKean at the same time intimated that if I had a little money I could spare, my appearance at the Rotonde would be doubly welcome. Poor Casey was once more in a hole!

(To be continued next week)

TO EACH

I wept because my friend was dead.
They chided me "He's only one;
ten thousand souls today have fled between the rise and set of sun.

Grief spreads her weary pinions wide and flies from door to door," they said.
I knew ten thousand men had died.
I wept because my friend was dead.

DESIGN FOR CITY MURAL

Telegraph poles frame a store-front
and delicate wires, a musical staff,
cross windows at odd intersections.

The life of the city flows by:
trucks with turnips violet and ivory satin tomatoes and rough-surfaced melons;
a cart with a dead steer lying, his throat cut,
the carcass gleaming mother-of-pearl.

Two come out of a doorway softtly, her mouth a magenta scallop his face white and unshaven.
A gentleman concise as a geometric design stares and goes on.
A tram thunders by, gigantic, inexorable, blotting out for an instant a hundred people.
A frayed man leaps for it, misses it, nervously smiles, shamed by such public defeat.

White-pillared, pure as a morning in May the Stock exchange stands. Through the portal hoarse cries. One man stands impassioned jaw forward, hat back.
Careful unhurried, with dignity
a pale man comes down the stairway death in his eyes.
An eager boy with a violin an angular man lightly carrying a ladder a stout one with gold-nugget scarfpin, all pass one another unseeing.
Men and women unaware,
women each other appraising.
A fire engine cleaves the wide street
the street huddles into the sidewalk.

Telegraph poles frame a store-front
and delicate wires, a musical staff
cross windows at odd intersections.

INDECISION

His eyes are watery and his voice is loud:
his brows are furry
and his nose is proud.
Impotently he twists and twists
his hands;
rooted in forked fallacies
he stands.

Dr. Billie's Garden

By L. A. W.

Well, I got some cabbage plants set out today. The weather was a bit drippy, fog hung low, and it seemed a good day for me to do some transplanting. Some Bibb lettuce had been getting a start in the greenhouse and so a dozen plants of that went out too.

By the way, that Bibb lettuce is turning out to be a dilly. This variety I have grows into small, tight [illegible] — especially when transplanted — of really tender, sweet, juicy leaves. One head makes just about enough salad for one person. We thought Prizehead was delicious but it's a drip beside Bibb.

Other members of the cabbage family are still too small and "leggy" to go out into the open ground. I guess I must have kept them too long in the greenhouse and they developed a mother-fixation or a psycho-somatic state, or something. Anyhow they are now being inured to the cold world by having a place in the lath house. I am hoping this will develop sturdiness and character in them. Perhaps if I forget to worry about them they will develop some self-reliance.

Incidentally, too, those early bush beans haven't done well at all. I don't know why I keep on planting beans so very early. They always are puny, yellow and scattered far apart in the row. I know that once in a coon's age there is a chance for early beans. But why need I be so eager to be the "first-est with the mostest?" There is always plenty else in the garden to eat. If I were a market gardener there might be some sense to my trying every year for an early crop. But I am not. I am just a gardener—maybe not even that.

As to the Scarlet Runners—well—some of the neighbors are beginning to wish we didn't like them (beans, that is) so well. Horse beans and cow carrots! Ugh!

Writers Workshop Opens Fall Term On September 15

When the Carmel Adult School opens next week one of the changes from last year's program will be the meeting of the short-story workshop conducted by Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte on Thursday evenings instead of Monday evenings. All men and women interested in the construction of the short story will be welcome to attend the round table discussion in room 11 of Sunset School beginning at 7:30 p. m., September 15.

All manuscripts presented before the meeting each week will be returned to the writer with a free typed critique, or else will be read anonymously before the group for verbal discunssion. The technique which will be given in every case will cover characterization, scene building, marketing possibilities and comparison with work by published writers of this age. The motto of the writers who attend these meetings is "Dish your dirt without subtractions. I can handle my reactions," and this is conducive to frank criticism.

FOLKS take a look at those bumper-guard grilles – built as a unit and proof against "locking horns"– and say "Hmmm! Nice!"

They sweep their eyes over tapering fenders, with a suggestion of jet power in their after contours–and say, "That's for me!"

They eye-measure windshields that are 48% bigger and rear windows with 56% more area–and know without being told they can see the road up closer, both fore and aft.

So they say–"That's for me–IF!

"What do I pay for high-compression, high-pressure Fireball power from a big Buick straight-eight engine?

"What's the tag on that swell Buick ride, with coil springing, extra-wide rims, seats between the axles and all that?

"And what about Dynaflow Drive–understand I can have that at extra cost –how much?"

Well, sir, the news is good. Plenty good.

Because this honey's priced well under your expectations. It's a straight-eight that's priced under a lot of sixes–over the years your investment will be no more than for any other car.

So better not stop with looking. Better price it too–delivered at your door. Your Buick dealer will give you the figures, even demonstrate.

The high school and college student's dictionary is by far the handiest reference book they can own. It is a source of words, their pronunciation and usage. It is a storehouse of facts, related words, and phrases used in the student's every day life. At HOLMAN'S BOOK DEN in Pacific Grove they will find The American College Dictionary, published by Random House. It is the only dictionary compiled by the direct participation of more than 350 authorities. This edition has the new revision of older terminology as well as new words. The system of pronunciation has been simplified into the method used in the training of radio announcers. This dictionary "must" is now available in HOLMAN'S BOOK DEN for $6.00.

A world of styles to choose from —a world of value for your clothes dollar, where else but at HARRIET DUNCAN'S. Here's the fashion innovations are the feminine, and, oh, how so flattering Julliard velveteen skirts and contrasting jackets. They come in cedar green, sapphire blue, yearling, and gold to merge only a few of the new fall colors. The jackets are cut in cardigan and tuxedo patterns, which with a jersey or silk blouse look extremely smart. The skirts are all $18.95; the jackets $17.95. Then, if you want to be tres gaie, in emerald green and scarlet you will find velveteen cocktail skirts trimmed with a flounce of black lace.

P. S.—I don't want to forget to mention HARRIET DUNCAN'S new Calderon belts currently featured in Harper's Bazaar and Vogue. Go in and see them, you can't resist buying one.

With the coming of fall and the return to school of Peninsula youth, HOLMAN'S BOOTERY in Monterey are focusing their attention on outfitting these students in appropriate and new footwear. Our eye was caught by a new brown calf oxford with a square extension toe and crepe sole. Yet we couldn't decide between it and the brown (or black) buck oxfords, or the Lazy-Bone loafers. Of course, the old faithfuls, all white buck, and saddle shoes were there also, plus the completely new and different gilly-oxford in saddle leather. They were all so comfortable and good looking we couldn't really make up our minds which were the best—so why don't you go to HOLMAN'S BOOTERY and decide for yourself.

Where else but at HOWARD'S DRESS SHOP can the price conscious school girl outfit herself so reasonably? Corduroy skirts can be had in a variety of styles and colors for $5.98 up, in sizes 22 to 30. Their contrasting 100% wool jersey blouses are $3.98 up. Equally as smart with these corduroy skirts (as well as HOWARD'S solid color, plaid, tweed, and checked skirts) are cotton and rayon shirts for $2.98. To go with all these skirts nothing is more attractive than a Jane Irwill Chinese cashmere sweater for a low sum, and her short sleeved wool slipons ($2.98 up), with matching cardigans ($3.98 up.) These magnificent bargains in unsurpassed quality are only to be found at HOWARD'S DRESS SHOP in Monterey.

Fernand and Blanche have a new addition to their popular little bistro, LA MAISONETTE. To complete the cosmopolitan atmosphere there is now a charming French-Dutch hostess to greet you in five languages. As we all know, LA MAISONETTE is the only exclusively French restaurant in Carmel, and not only are the prices extremely reasonable for a complete dinner but Fernand and Blanche give a great reduction for special parties. They can well afford doing this because everything is prepared by Fernand's own deft hands. Children are always welcomed at Fernand's and Blanche's, in fact there is also a children's plate to encourage the youngster to appreciate fine foods. And speaking of food Fernand is now featuring sweetbreads Financiere. . . . Oh, sooo good!!

Before the fire—after or before the game—at cocktail time—Doris Dodson country-city wool casuals are the answer. MARIANNA'S DRESS SHOP in Monterey has the exclusive on the Peninsula for these wardrobe wonders. Every high school or college girl can well afford Doris Dodson juniors. The price is so little for so much—$10.95 to $19.95. The marvelous about these junior fashions is that every month new and exciting styles are featured in MARIANNA'S SHOP.

Mrs. Lehmann Reports To Church Women On Clothing Project

Since the first of this year 380 pounds of clothing have been dispatched for relief by the local group working on the project, Mrs. Walter Lehmann reported to the Monterey Peninsula Council of Church Women at the fall meeting last Friday at the Church of the Wayfarer. With Mrs. Lehmann and Mrs. Walter Kreisler as co-chairmen, the women meet to mend, make, and pack garments on the second and fourth Thursday afternoons from 2 to 5 o'clock at the Church of the Wayfarer. Materials and garments outgrown or no longer needed are gladly accepted for this work, which has been going on since January, 1948.

This year parcels have been sent to the Save the Children Federation for distribution, and to a mission in Tennessee, to St. Mary's Home and to the Reverend J. Lloyd, both in Japan, with parcels of food also for the latter. Fourteen parcels have been sent to the Reverend Karl Urbanke in Germany, and recently three parcels to Dean Christian Diegritz in Germany. These Lutheran clergymen are serving Displaced Persons camps where the need is very great, and their letters of gratitude are very affecting. This work by the C.C.W. members will continue, but an added project will be carried on in the next two months to collect and dispatch needles, scissors, thread, buttons, scraps of new material and larger pieces suitable for making children's garments, to the women of the devastated countries to be used for mending or making new clothing for needy children.

Mrs. M. O. Lawrence of Pacific Grove, president, conducted the meeting, which began with a box lunch at 12:30. She introduced Margaret Smith of Monterey, who reported briefly on the Missionary Education Movement conference at Asilomar in August. She was especially impressed by the talks by the Reverend Kanimoto of Hiroshima, who is in America at present. Miss Constance Messenger reported on the meeting at Asilomar in July of the Camp Farthest Out, and Mrs. Lawrence told of the program at E. Stanley Jones' Ashram (retreat) in August. Mrs. Lawrence announced Mrs. Lehmann as general chairman for the November meeting, World Community Day, to be held at Hays' Chapel in Seaside.

Two Carmel women were prize winners in the home economics department, clothing and textiles divisions at the Monterey County Fair. Mrs. E. L. Spanton won first and third for her quilts. True Travis won third award for pot holders and hot place mats, and took first and third in toys.

Randolph Hokanson To Give Concert Here On Sept. 17

Randolph Hokanson, who was introduced to Carmel audiences during the Bach Festival, will play in a concert here at Sunset Auditorium on September 17.

He was well received here for his work with the three piano group, the four piano group, and his solo program on Friday night of the Festival was highly successful.

Hokanson, at the age of 18, received a scholarship with the famous English pianist, Harold Samuels. He studied for three years in London with the great Bach authority, and on the death of Harold Samuels in 1937, studied with Dame Myra Hess, completing his studies with Dr. Carl Friedberg in New York. With such a background of Bach tradition, Randolph Hokanson has specialized in the playing of the original keyboard works of Johann Sebastian Bach, making his New York debut in 1947 and his San Francisco debut last season, with outstanding success.

Of the San Francisco appearance, Alfred Frankenstein wrote in the San Francisco Chronicle, ". . . remarkable brilliance, fine taste . . .", while Alexander Fried in the San Francisco Examiner declared, "A natural pianist, gifted and cultivated not only in his fingers but also in his musical mind and spirit."

CARMEL EVENING SCHOOL OPENS

Carmel Evening School will open the fall semester on Monday, September 19. It is hoped that many new subjects, such as [illegible]dary, weaving, driver education, business education, will be offered.

The Carmel Evening School will be open from 7 to 10 p. m., this next week for the convenience of those wishing to register for any new classes or for those seeking information about the schedule.

Demonstration Of Lithograph Process At Carmel Gallery

A little landscape by Buck Warshawsky, Street Scene in Brittainy, an oil done on his trip to France last year, is being reproduced as a lithograph by the Graves Gallery, as part of their fine arts print collection.

Proofs of the various separation plates have been furnished the Carmel Art Association [illegible]y by the Modern Lithograph Company of San Francisco, so that the gallery has been able to put them on exhibition as a demonstration of how lithographs are made.

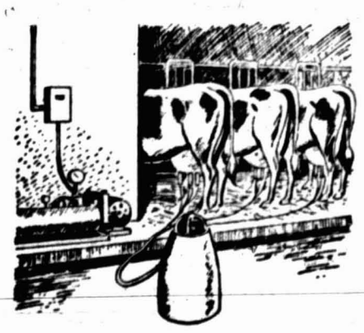
The best bargain in your household budget

Meat costs much more than before the war . . . but not the gas or electricity to cook it. Refrigerators cost much more, too...but not the gas or electricity to run them. What's more, in the P. G. and E. service area, you get the biggest utility bargain in the United States.

For example, Bay Area people pay less for the same amount of gas and electricity than do those in any of the country's 25 largest cities. And P. G. and E. farm power rates are much lower than the national average for all utilities—including tax-free cooperatives and government-owned systems.

Heating and lighting your home at lower cost means that more is left in your budget for food, clothing, recreation and other every-day essentials for happy, healthy living.



More income for farmers is possible because low rates enable them to use work-saving electric appliances and equipment. Electric pumping means better yields, more diversified crops.

For the record

A real buy—of your average dollar you spend approximately 44¢ on food and clothes . . .

some 19¢ for rent and furnishings . . . 36¢ for miscellaneous . . . but only 8/10 of a penny for the electricity to run your whole house.

Lyon-Corley Wedding

The wedding of Marilyn Corley and Don A. Lyon took place last Saturday evening at the home of Kenneth Wood. A profusion of greens and pastel and white flowers graced the living room, and Dr. K. Fillmore Gray performed the [illegible] ceremony before the improvised altar there.

The bride wore a becoming two-piece knit outfit of ivory wool and wore a corsage of green orchids.

The new Mrs. Lyon is the daughter of Roscoe Corley of Berkeley and of Mrs. Mildred L. Eggleston of Augora. She has been a resident for some time.

Don Lyon, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James A. Lyon of Pocatello, Idaho, has lived in Carmel for many years, during most of which time he has been assistant cashier of the Bank of Carmel. He served for three years with the armed forces during World War II and was a Staff Sergeant with the 555 Signal Aircraft Warning Battalion, AAF.

Friends of the couple who witnessed the ceremony later enjoyed a buffet supper and toasted the bride and groom with champagne. Guests were Mrs. Daisy Bostick, Miss Irene Alexander, Mrs. Lloyd Weer, Mr. and Mrs. Arne Halle, Henry Pancher, and Melvin Wood of St. Louis, as well as the host, Kenneth Wood.

After a brief honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Lyon will return to make their home here.

Jennefer Lloyd Home

Jennefer Lloyd was home last weekend after the completion of the summer term at Stanford, bringing two classmates with her to spend the holidays. They were Jackie Miller, who has returned to her home in Portland, and Mary Lodmell, who will continue at Stanford. Mary's father was stationed here, and the family spent some time in Carmel.

Stanford's quota system being what it is, Jennefer must wait until after Christmas to continue her studies at the University and is at present having a short vacation in San Francisco before returning to "settle down" in Carmel in the fall.

All Saints' Bazaar

The annual Christmas bazaar, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of All Saints' Episcopal Church, will be held on November 17, publicity chairman Mrs. L. F. Squire said this week. Early announcement of the date is made so as to avoid conflict with other events. The bazaar has become a tradition, and many Carmelites plan to do a part of their Christmas gift buying from the selections offered at the needlework and other booths. A home cooked luncheon is another feature. The bazaar is the main fund raising project of All Saints' Auxiliary.

AWVS Drive

A back-to-school clothing drive is under day by the American Women's Voluntary Services for their Thrift Shop at 707 Del Monte Avenue in Seaside. According to Mrs. Edwin N. Atherton, shop chairman, "the donations will be sold at very low prices to meet the great need in the local community. Proceeds go to help those in distress and aid to the youth projects which are in serious and growing demand."

For information concerning pick ups for contributions call Mrs. William H. Satchell, 765-J; or Mrs. Robert Harnisch, 689-R; in Monterey, Mrs. Richmond K. Turner, 5148; Pebble Beach, Mrs. Elizabeth Goodrich, Carmel 1281-W; in Pacific Grove, Mrs. F. A. L. Vossler, Monterey 4169; Country Club, Mrs. Charles R. Kippy Celebrates

As the sun rose on Labor Day, Kippy Stuart was struck by a number of thoughts. She had a house guest, she had a spanking new, elegant party dress, and the next day was her birthday; then she did the impossible. She called 45 people, and 45 people accepted her invitation to a cocktail party the same day—well, champagne, as a matter of fact, and the cocktail hour had expired by a good six hours when the last guest departed, proving that Kippy had the perfect answer to the end-of-the-holiday blues.

Judges Announced

The Del Monte Kennel Club has announced the following judges for the twenty-fourth annual All Breed Dog Show to be held Sunday, September 18, at Pebble Beach Lodge.

From the east cames Mrs. Edward P. Renner of Great Barrington, Mass., and Rees L. Davies of Anderson, Indiana, who will judge the major breeds. From Seattle will be Mrs. Zara Smith, who will judge Toys. Carl Spitz of Hollywood, well-known trainer of dogs for the movies, will judge the advanced obedience classes, while Kenneth Dyer of San Francisco will judge the balance of these classes. Mrs. J. C. Edwards of Berkeley will judge a large group of Chow entries. Other judges will be Mrs. Kenneth Fitzpatrick, Edward Neale, Dr. Frank Porter Miller and Marshall Barth, all of Southern California.

Teen Day

Numerous members of the younger set have made plans to attend the Teen Day at the Beach Club tomorrow, since it will be one of the last affairs before schools resume.

It will be a full day for young members and their guests, starting off with a mixed doubles tennis tournament at 10 a. m. At noon an aquacade will be held in the Club pool, followed by luncheon at 12:30. From 1 to 2 p. m. Holman's will show back-to-school fashions, and a tea dance has been planned later in the Surf Room.

Dorothy's Reactivated

After being burned out of the Green Room of the Playhouse, Dorothy Dean spent the summer in Hollywood to good advantage, working with such exponents of the dance as Adolph Bohlm and Carmelita Marachi. Miss Dean has now licked the housing, or studio, shortage, and will hold her Carmel classes in the dance studio on Mission street between Fourth and Fifth streets.

A jampacked schedule is in store for Mrs. J. A. Canoles, who is leaving to accompany daughter Patsy to Northfield, Mass., where Patsy will attend Northfield School for Girls to continue her music studies.

Mrs. Canoles plans to be gone three weeks, during which time she will visit a brother in New York City, another brother and his family near Portland, Maine, her mother's relatives in Rochester, her sister's family in Chicago, then home by way of Atlanta and Los Angeles, where she will see her other brothers. En route, as she and Patsy pass through Reno, they will be joined by Mr. and Mrs. John Magaldi (Carol Canoles), who will ride part way with them.

Known professionally as June Delight, Mrs. Canoles will return to open her dance studio on October 1. Meanwhile, daughter June will have returned to her music studies at Belmont College.

Claudia Tours City

Nancy Brown, our recent Claudia, and her friend, Joan Daniels, accompanied by Nancy's mother, Mrs. Robert M. Brown, spent several days in San Francisco last week, and Mrs. Brown is still breathless after the merry chase the girls led her.

Starting from their headquarters at the Clift, they did a round of shopping and the theaters, managing to see Kiss Me Kate, Streetcar Named Desire, the Ice Follies and The Red Shoes. Both girls, seniors at Carmel High, are interested in the theater and in musicals particularly. It was a happy but exhausting trip, according to Mrs. Brown.

Queens Entertained

With Holman's Guest Ranch bulging over the holidays, Little Bob and Big Bob had quite a workout, playing hosts to not one, but TWO queens: Mrs. Alice Sahl, winner of the Queen for a Day program, and the Peninsula's Rose Marinello, Centennial queen. Nation Junior Tennis Champ Tom Falkenburg and Mrs. Falkenburg were also guests over the weekend.

The two Bobs report that the Ben Turpin cover issue of Life has proved a big impetus to the revival of old silent films, and the Bobs are, of course, the first to revive them in this vicinity.

Distinguished Guests

Visiting the Carmel summer home of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Broaddus of Stockton are Dr. Torald Sollman of Cleveland, Ohio, and his daughter, Miss Mary Sollman of New Orleans. Dr. Sollman is dean emeritus and professor of pharmacology of Western Reserve Medical School, which is also the alma mater of Dr. Broaddus and his son, Major Robert Broaddus. Miss Sollman is professor of classical language and literature at Tulane University.

On Sunday Dr. and Mrs. Broaddus will take their guests to Yosemite for several days and later will entertain them in their Stockton home. Dr. Sollman will give the opening lecture in Stockton for the Medical Society's 1949 post graduate course, of which Dr. Broaddus is chairman. Dr. Sollman is a distinguished scholar and author of scientific books and articles, and his Pharmacology book went into its seventh edition last year.

Earnest Fishermen Return

The McCormicks—Dr. Edward W. McCormick, Mrs. McCormick, young Tim McCormick and Miss Nan McCormick—left for Canada a month ago with high expectations, and they weren't disappointed. They returned last week with the record of 96 fish caught, 22 of which were salmon, and, of course, Tim caught the biggest fish.

The McCormicks drove north, visiting in Victoria and Vancouver, and made camp headquarters at Qualicun Beach, 110 miles north of Victoria. It was there that they did most of their fishing. Everyone had a wonderful time, although they report that the weather might have been a little kinder to them.

Lows Give Barbecue

Just in case the holiday festivities weren't enough for the Paul Lows' San Francisco house guest, W. E. MacDonald, they entertained on Sunday afternoon with a barbecue and bridge party.

Guests who enjoyed the event were Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Brown, Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bolling, Mr. and Mrs. George Gooden, Mrs. Irene Conner and Miss Pete Willis.

An interesting and frequent visitor at Kippy Stuart's home is Mrs. Constance Du Bois, who flew up from Hollywood to spend the recent holidays with Kippy. When, 18 or 20 years ago the artists and writers were throwing brickbats at one another, William Johnston wasn't spared. However, when news came recently that William Johnston, dean of the Royal Academy in London, was expected, everyone got out his best bib-and-tucker and prepared to lionize him; they're still waiting. Seems he did get here, but only for one-half hour, since 200 exchange students and inexorable schedules were awaiting him in Colorado.

One of The Pine Cone's school age summer salesmen rushed into the office Wednesday to ask, "Do they print The Pine Cone during school, too?"

THE BOOKMEN ARE CONSIDERABLY EXCITED THIS WEEK OVER the newest addition to their Christmas Card stock. Available now at the little blue house on Lincoln Street, and only there in Carmel, are the cards of the Carlis and Frederiksen studios. You have probably seen these advertised in The New Yorker, but until you have seen the cards themselves you have no idea of how fresh and original they are. Available individually, or in quantities with the name imprinted, they are a medium-priced card which will not put too large a dent in the pocketbook. Don't miss them!

Newly arrived too is Mike Waltari's splendid historical novel, "The Egyptian," a fascinating panorama of ancient Egypt. The Bookmen recommend it for those who like worth-while historical fiction. It is not — with apologies to Joseph Henry Jackson—of the "bosom and cutlass" school!

Heyler-Dekker Wedding

On August 31 Joan Elizabeth Dekker became the bride of David Baldwin Heyler, Jr., in a lovely candlelight ceremony performed by the Reverend Alfred B. Seccombe at All Saints' Episcopal Church. Joan was given in marriage by her uncle, Chauncey Harding Dekker of Pasadena.

For her wedding the bride chose a white organdy gown with full skirt, pleated bertha and long, pointed sleeves. A fingertip veil fell from the crown of lily of the valley upon her head, and she carried a bouquet of white begonias and lily of the valley.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Susan, who wore a crown of white dotted organdy. Her head was crowned with a wreath of miniature ivy, and she carried a bouquet of pink begonias with ivy streamers. The bridesmaids, whose costumes were identical with hers, were Ann Hodgson, Carolee Rodgers of Watsonville and a cousin of the bride, Joan Humphrey of Piedmont, Dorothy Fitger of Beverly Hills, and Jean Ainsworth of Berkeley, another cousin.

The best man was Charles J. Heyler, and the ushers were Jack Bullard, Donald Smiley, John L. Malloy, Lincoln O. Sheranian and Richard G. Clark.

Following the ceremony a wedding reception was held at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club. After a honeymoon in Honolulu, the newlyweds will make their home in Palo Alto, where the groom is a student at Stanford Law School.

Joan, who graduated from Carmel High School and attended Stanford University, is the daughter of Mrs. William N. Dekker and the late Major Dekker, and a niece of John Steinbeck, Mrs. Eugene Ainsworth of Berkeley, and Mrs. Carroll Rogers of Watsonville.

David is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Heyler, Sr., of Beverly Hills. At Stanford he is a member of Phi Kappa Psi and Phi Delta Phi, honorary law fraternity.

The Workings All Pursue Science

One of the most notable visitors over the recent holiday was Dr. Earl Booth Working, whose family name is very nearly synonymous with scientific contribution, having enriched more than one field through research and education. Dr. Working's father, Daniel Webster Working, is recognized as an eminent agriculturalist and contributor of numerous articles in agricultural and historical publications. His brother Holbrook, a professor of economics, has served many agencies as statistical consultant and has been active in government production research and development.

Dr. Working himself is a chamical engineer, concerned principally with foods, whose consulting practice and research has led him to widely separated projects, Early in his career, his research work at the desert laboratory of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, D. C., near Tucson, brought him a degree from the University of Arizona. It was also the beginning of his friendship with Dr. D. T. MacDougal, then a research associate of the Institution, and it is to Dr. MacDougal's Carmel Highlands home that he often brings his family.

For a year and a half during the war, Dr. Working was associated with a project in Haiti studying the production of rubber from a vine, Cryppostegia, which yields a high quality of rubber and is one of the dozen plants whose possibilities for the production of rubber were studied by our chemists during the war. With the return of peace, these projects were dropped, but the research done is of inestimable value.

Dr. Working, now in residence at Downey, is engaged primarily in consulting practice. Mrs. Working is a dietetic consultant to hospitals and nurseries, and their son Roland is already on the way to continuing the family's devotion to the sciences. A physics major at Compton Junior College, Roland's main interest lies in the field of electronics, upon which he plans to concentrate further studies.

Varied Selection Of Paintings In New Show

solely in red brown and a sepia tone and depicts two Mexican women seated on the typical rug with typical vases, head gear, and even typical cigar.

Laura Maxwell's Begonias, with large masses of begonia flowers in glorious color combinations, is the only flower study in the exhibit.

Sam Harris' two water color studies on silk, Woman and Child and Figure, bring the oriental spirit into the display. They are both handled with a skillful sketch-like quality.

Also notable pictures in this show are Burton Boundey's Old Barn, a vigorous landscape with barn, demonstrating the warmth and dryness of the California countryside. Fred Dean's Taxco Hilltop is a tropical scene alive with color. Gene Francis' Shore of Mazatland is of a similar type of setting of a street scene along the shore with vivid houses shadowed by towering palms. Mrs. Helen Salz has two small pastel paintings entitled Garden and Pastel, both handled in the soft shades of her delicate style. Sam Colburn's From Canyon Rd., a rather humorous study, with glowing color value and a small figure in the foreground jauntingly stepping through, and Richard Lofton's Landscape sepia sketch round out the exhibit.

Water color painting is today said to be a department of art that expresses the American pictorial feeling better than any other. It is certainly true of the varied selection of paintings which are hanging in the Beardsley Room of the Carmel Art Gallery.

Georgia Brinkerhoff

Private services for Mrs. Georgia A. Brinkerhoff, who died at her residence, 1815 Benedict Canyon Road, Beverly Hills, on September 6, were held at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Los Angeles, on September 8.

She was a native of Chicago, Illinois, and was 77 years of age. She is survived by one brother, Paul Fowler, of Elks Creek, Missouri. Mrs. Brinkerhoff had numerous friends in Carmel, having visited here frequently.

He was taken to the Peninsula Community hospital to be treated for contusions and lacerations.

VALLEY ACCIDENT

LOWER TAX RATE

Monterey County's tax rate, set last week by the Supervisors at their meeting in Salinas, is $1.47, 16 cents less than last year. Lower rate was possible through postponing the half million dollar improvement project at the county hospital, and other economies in capital outlay and operating expense.

Bank of Carmel Low Bidder For Library Bonds

The Bank of Carmel's low bid of one and one-half per cent interest on the $35,000 library bond issue, plus a premium of $85, was put over for a week by the city council at its meeting Wednesday night. There were four other bidders.

Saying that cars and trucks damage property and plants turning around in private driveways, nine property owners on Lopez street asked for a parking and turn around at the dead end of the street.

When the council referred the problem to the planning commission, Stuart Work, in the audience, asked that the planning commission committee, when it came to investigate the situation, notify some of the residents so they could be on hand with information and explanations.

Mayor Fred Godwin pointed out that if a parking area were created it would constitute a major street improvement project and the property owners would have to pay for it. Street Commissioner Gene Ricketts said nothing could be done without sacrificing a number of trees.

City Clerk Peter Mawdsley reported the recommendation of the planning commission that a beautification plan for Ocean Avenue be considered by the council, that ice plant be planted along the side of Ocean Avenue from Carpenter to Junipero, and that the planting of both sides of Ocean Avenue from Monte Verde to the beach be undertaken, or that center islands be continued on down to the beach.

Ricketts thought if the council took the matter under advisement with time for further study somebody would be able to think of something better than ice plant.

The city clerk read a letter from Eben Whittlesey asking when the street department would get around to starting the major street improvement project on Tenth street from San Carlos east, since the property owners had all signed up and sent in their money months ago.

Street Commissioner Ricketts said the delay had been occasioned by the council's trying to make up its mind as to how many pine trees would have to be removed before the work could be started. The final decision is to take out three near the kindergarten.

Whittlesey, in the audience, asked if he could have a definite answer as to when the work would begin and Ricketts said, "It won't begin before tomorrow morning."

Other street matters included Mrs. Grant Wallace's request for repair of chuck holes on Eleventh street, referred to the street superintendent; and Mrs. Flora Hoffman's request for right to purcase part of the city street fronting on her property at Third and Mission (not open) so her lots would be large enough to constitute a building site, referred to the council as a whole, as was Philip Wilson's request for closing Third street from Mission to Del Monte.

A letter from David Prince, president of the Forest Theater Guild, requesting the city consider purchasing sets and flats from the Centennial for the Forest Theater was favorably acted upon, the four councilmen appointed by the mayor to look into the matter.

Permission to hang signs was granted Don Early, Inc., at San Carlos between Fixth and Sixth, and James Kerns, for Rikki's Kitchen, May Court, Mission street.

Transfer of beer and wine licenses were approved for Robert T. Van Ostrand, Carmel Smoke Shop, from Robert Gray, and Lawrence R. Meech, El Fumador, from Leslie Bosshardt.

The city clerk reported that he had written to the State Board of Equalization protesting the application of Stanley Clay for a beer and wine license for his new store on Mission between Fifth and Sixth, and of James C. Kerns for his store in May Court at Mission and Sixth, on grounds that the two applications were for stores in close proximity. The protests are routine, in line with the city council's policy of protesting all applications for new beer and wine or liquor licenses.

Let us hope that the loudspeaker performance on our streets today does not set a precedent. It puts us on a level with Avalon, Catalina Island.

Dear Sirs:

It takes a lot of people, doing a lot of work together, to make a program as completely successful as our Monterey County Fair Horse Show has been this year—and all because of your splendid cooperation and the wholehearted support of our Horse Show friends. Spirit like this will help to keep the Monterey County Fair Horse Show—your horse show and mine—the number one show on the west coast.

It is the cooperation of people such as you and your organization which made for a truly successful show. This year, we had the largest number of entries, not only in numbers, but also in quality, to say nothing of the number of spectators.

Again, to you, and all your organization, go our deepest thanks, not only on my part, but that of the entire Horshe Show committee.

Sincerely,
Chairman,
James A. Glaser,

nates the situation.

Along came the kids' council meeting and one of the junior councilmen asked Gene Ricketts when the trash would be hauled away. Gene said it wasn't going to be hauled away.

The Pine Cone cornered the mayor next day and said, what about this? Mayor Godwin said sure the trash would be hauled away. He was meeting informally with the council and Bill Askew that afternoon to get the whole thing ironed out and we could quote him. The Pine Cone quoted him and then Wilma and Cliff went off on a sorely needed vacation. By the time we got back the trash would be out of the way and we could have something else to talk about.

Imagine our astonishment when we returned to see the same cozy little piles of trash all over town.

Councilman Don Craig got back from Mexico and began to act as if he thought it a little shabby to promise the citizens something and then not make good. He talked it over with Gene Ricketts and Gene said hell he'd have hauled it away long time ago if he could find a place to PUT it. On Monday night of this week, according to Donald Craig, he and Gene had almost worked out a way the city could dispose of the remaining piles of trash.

Meanwhile, the police department was solving the situation in its own inimitable manner, going around threatening people with arrest if they didn't have the trash removed at their own expense.

Adolf "Frenchy" Lafrenz was a hold-out. Frenchy had a genuine grievance. He cleaned out his yard once on the promise of city councilmen that the stuff would be hauled away, and then when Gene had uttered his deathless words to the kids that it wasn't going to be hauled, he had sent for a private trucker and paid the cartage himself. Then, when the mayor had made the statement that the trash would be hauled, Frenchy had decided that there was a lot more pruning and trimming to be done. But he'd make doubly sure, so he had Hallie Samson phone the fire department and the police department, and, according to Frenchy and Hallie, both said, yeh, the city would haul away his trash, go ahead, put it out in front. Chief of Police Roy Fraties says that maybe he did. Yet Tuesday Frenchy was served with a warrant for arrest and Wednesday he faced Judge George P. Ross, plead guilty to violating a city ordinance, namely piling trash on a city street, and paid a fine of $10.

Judge Ross said the minimum fine was $25 but he was making it easy on Frenchy because there were "extenuating circumstances. I would have piled trash out on the street myself if I'd had any."

—Wilma Cook.

MISSION SAN CARLOS

Masses: Week days 7:30 a. m.; Sunday, 7:00, 8:00, 9:30, 11:30 a. m. Carmel Valley, 9:00 a. m.

Police Desk . . .

This week's police blotter was pretty much routine. The people who made it mainly did so in quite orthodox ways. Only a few imaginative individuals distinguished themselves from the common.

Two kids with a yen for roast marshmallows built a bonfire in the middle of a clump of bushes. Oficer Pat Casey arrived uninvited before the marshmallows and kids were well cooked. He explained to them that marshmallows taste better when not violating a city ordinance and endangering the neighborhood.

Someone reports tuberous begonias being stolen from his garden. As stolen begonias were not selected from the complainant's best stock, we are lead to suspect this the work of an amateur gardener. Probably someone incited to horticulture by the colorful Centennial flower exhibits.

More minor troubles. This time a woman phoned about a bunch of little blokes who were hurling light bulbs at a man working on her roof. The little dim bulbs were apprehended and their parents notified.

Exclusive to The Pine Cone—In Officer 'Andy" Del Monte, familiar figure to Carmel grown-ups and kids, we may have another budding literary light. When asked if he had anything to say about the traffic situation in general, he stated, "Oh boy! I could write a book if they'd let me."

Chamber of Commerce publicity note: If you were Carmel-beaching over the holidays—and had your picture taken (small fee) by a photographer working for the Chamber of Commerce magazine which was covering the Centennial—don't expect to see yourself on the cover. Don't expect to see yourself in the magazine. Don't expect to see the magazine. And don't hope to get a refund on your money unless police discover the phoney photographer who lured peoples' contributions with bright promises of publicity and a prop cowboy hat. The dastard probably didn't have any film in his camera, either.

With school opening, "Andy" will probably be back at school, too, giving kids (and parents often) his customary traffic safety talks. He thinks it would be a swell idea for everyone to get in on the tickets for the new Youth Center building fund buffet on September 18. He offers to lead anyone who cannot find a ticket seller directly to one.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit" (I Corinthians 2:9, 10). This is the Golden Text of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Christian Science churches on Sunday, September 11, on the subject "Substance."

The following citations are taken from those comprising the sermon:

The Bible: "Judas saith unto him, not Iscariot, Lord, how is it that thou wilt manifest thyself uto us, and not unto the world? Jesus answered and said unto him, If a man love me, he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him" (John 14: 22, 23).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "If the disciple is advancing spiritually, he is striving to enter in. He constantly turns away from material sense, and looks towards the imperishable things of Spirit. If honest, he will be in earnest from the start, and gain a little each day in the right direction, till at last he finishes his course with joy" (p. 21).

Chaplain Bennett On Japan

REPORTED BY L. L. TURNER

The importance of understanding the Japanese people if we are to maintain peaceful relations with them was stressed by Chaplain Primus Bennett, now stationed at Fort Ord, in an address before the Monterey Peninsula Council of Church Women, meeting at the Church of the Wayfarer last Friday afternoon. The Reverend Bennett recently returned from duty in Japan, where his army assignment gave him extensive contact with the people.

The Japanese, he said, are essentially a religious people, with a deep spiritual sense, and are in no way pagan. Every civilization, the chaplain believes, grows out of the country's religion, and it is through their religion that the foreigner can best understand the people. There is much that peoples of the western world can learn from the Japanese, with their sense of spiritual values and of the dignity and worth of life. This engenders a courtesy and ceremonial observance in daily relations which the so-called advanced nations lack. Their belief in life after death leads to festivals for the dead, and the placing of shrines in beautiful surroundings throughout the land. In their temples one becomes aware of the divine influence in human experiences.

This spiritual sense offers a foundation for Christian belief, and the people accept this, which is also an Oriental religion, as harmonizing with their national beliefs. The many Christian Japanese tried to prevent the war, and suffered internment and privation for their efforts. The people are essentially peaceful but were forced into the war by the small ruling military class. Now the people want Bibles and hymnals, and the American Bible Society has arranged to furnish more than a million copies in their language.

Chaplain Bennett told of the relief work sponsored by the Army, the distribution of salvaged blankets and surplus bread, and clothing sent by people of the United States. This country is spending more than a million dollars a day to feed the people, as the Japanese islands are four-fifths unproductive areas, and only by exporting manufactured products can the country's economy be stabilized. This is the problem facing the Allied Nations, which must be met in arranging the peace treaty.

Giving the devotions at the opening of the meeting, the Reverend A. B. Seccombe of All Saints' Church pointed to the value of cooperation among Christian bodies, as exemplified in the Council of Church Women, the association locally of more than a dozen religious organizations, and nationally of more than a score of denominations. Ruth Hill Cooke, with Noel Sullivan as accompanist, presented three solos that were much appreciated by the women attending from churches throughout the Peninsula.

The Time Has Come . .

By Kippy Stuart

Foolish question: how often does my garden need watering? Foolish answer: how often do you need a glass of water? This is a never ending merry-go-round and there is absolutely no sensible answer to the watering question. It depends upon humidity—on fog—on sunshine—and on a dozen other factors. The only true way to serve your garden properly is to learn the needs of different plants and act accordingly.

Geraniums, daphne, 'matilija poppies should all be kept on the dry side. This means that the soil around the base of the plant should be allowed to crust and actually dry up. Then, about once in four weeks, flood the cup at base of plants, and let her be. On the other hand, tuberous begonias must be kept damp at all times. Roses should be flooded occasionally in summer. Fuchsias need water, and HOW! So you see, there is no set pattern of watering; one must just learn what's what in the garden.

Some plants resent wet foliage; others need leaves washed frequently. Roses, fuchsias, azaleas, camellias and rhododendron all like to be watered overhead. Stock, snapdragons, asters and petunias fall on their faces if watered overhead. One of the best ways to eradicate aphis and white fly is to use a fine-needled spray and go up under the plants. Just touch your fuchsias now. August is the month for white fly and boy, do they come in abundance. As you touch your fuchsias, you will notice a shower of what looks like ashes dance overhead. This is one of the worst enemies of fuchsias. This cold water bath actually gives the white fly pneumonia and prevents them breeding for next season. Nicotine spray will also eradicate white fly and aphis all at one crack, but gardeners who groan at the sight of a spray gun, can do very well for themselves with the fine needled spray of cold water.

Don't be alarmed if your grass looks like something the cat brought home. Most lawns on the Monterey Peninsula are going through "that period" and look scrawny and moth eaten. Grass needs food and top dressing right now, but if you are too busy to attend to this, still don't worry. The fall rains (if any), will bring back the pristine green. There is no set rule about watering grass. The fellow that gives his lawn a sprinkle every day will not be as efficient as the fellow who floods his lawn twice a week. And when flooding, or when sprinkling, be sure and watch for spots the hose does not service. Brown spots in the lawn may be the result of fungus or of lawn-moth. Either can be controlled, but the trick is to diagnose which enemy is attacking. Just ask any good gardener. He will know and gardeners are famous for their good nature and helpfulness to neighbors.
